The Championship Record.

WON FROM THE REDS.

Comiskey's Men Played a Game of Uphili Ball, but Failed to Win.

The Senators won yesterday's game from the incinnatis, but they played very sloppy ball. Miserable judgment was displayed in run bases. Even Capt Joyce lost his head after making a triple. How many more runs could have been made had there been better base-have been made had there been better beseranning is hard to tell.

Maul gave six men bases on balls and four resulted in scores. Shiebeck, notwithstanding he made two errors, played fast ball. Schach, Mctsuire, and Joyce did the batting for the Senators, and Holliday for the visitors. Hoy covered a great deal of ground.

Mr. limsile had many close decisions to make, but he came out without any trouble. In the last inning he declared Merritt out at first because of McThee's interference with Radford while making a double play.

The Senators started their scoring in the first. After Shiebeck went out Joyce reached first on halls, Hassamaer made a double, Aboys singled, McVenire god a two-bagger to right centre, and Selbach put one over the right field fence on the bound for a brimer, the fifth run of the inning. Bases on balls to Cartwright, Hadford, and shiebeck, and a fly to Helliday scored one run in the fourth liming. In the seventh Shiebeck single, Joyce's triple, and McGuire's single scored one run. Selbach's single, Holliday's drop of Radford's sty, and Shebeck's single, Holliday's drop of Radford's sty, and Shebeck's slingle, Holliday's drop of Radford's sty, and Shebeck's slingle, Holliday's drop of Radford's sty, and Shebeck's slingle, Holliday's drop of Radford's sty, and Shebeck's slingle put scored one run. Selbach's single, itelliday's op of Ranford's fly, and Shiebeck's single put e across the pitte in the eighth, and in the ith Joyce's triple and McGuire's double netted

BELDING WAS A HIGHFLYER

Escapades of a Gay and Dashing Washington Hotel Steward.

HE IS WANTED IN TWO CITIES

At the Normandie and By a Prominent Furniture Dealer in This City He Is Only Too Well Bemembered-Cut a Wide Swath in Philadelphia-Detectives After Him.

William T. Belding, whose father is a clerk in the Treasury Department, and who will be reoung steward at the Normandie and Riggs use, has recently created a decided sensation n Philadelphia by pursuing the same course that led to his departure from Washington about a year ago, and which has caused detectives in ery section of the country to be looking for Belding was only employed at the Normandle about a month, but in that short period he sucseeded in creating the impression that he had no idea of the difference between right and ceeded in creating the impression that he had no idea of the difference between right and wrong, or that he knew what belonged to others and what was his own. He had, it is said, hardly secured the appointment of steward before he began to swindle the proprietor. He presented and collected fictitious bills from the cashier, required the persons who furnished supplies to the hotel to pay him a commission, bought marketing for his family in the name of the hotel, and the proprietor was soon convinced that fielding was utterly dishonest and discharged him.

Before going to the Normandle Beiding was for a time steward at the Riggs House, but so far as is known he committed no swindle there. He was found of the best wines, etc., but that was not regarded as particularly objectionable, and he left the Riggs of his own volition.

While in Washington Helding purchased about $1,000 worth of functure from the firm of Mr. Julius Lansburgh, for which Mr. Lansburgh has not yet been paid.

IN THE QUAKER CITY. When Belding was dismissed from the Nor-mandle he asked the proprietor for a letter of recommendation, but it was refused. He then went to Chicago, where he soon afterward secured a position at the Lakota, whence he went to the Hotel Metropole, Philadelphia. His esca-pades in the latter city are stated in a local pades in the latter city are stated in a local paper as follows:

"Boddings entree in this city was of the most lurid style. He came with lots of recommendations from hotel proprisors and prominent persons. Many of these letters were purely fictilious, as the management of the Hotel Metropole has found out. He has a prepossessing appearance. Over six feet tall, with a smooth face, dark eyes and hair, well and tastefully clothed, of courieous address, he was a hotel cherk to be desired. When Manager William S. Boughty, of the Metropole, saw him last November he was rather taken with the young man's appearance, and engaged him as a "front" clerk at once. Bedding is twenty-eight years cid, and knows more about the tricks of the hotel business than the average cierk. He won his way into the friendship of many persons, and in a remarkaby brief time was hall fellow well met in poker games.

LOST MONEY AT GAMBLING. "His luck was none too good at gambling, and he lost money. He borrowed on all sides, and the lenders are now sorry that they were so generous to the courteous clerk. Belding also looked ground among the fashionable tailors and or-lered suit after suit. He was fond of dress, and around among the fashionable tallors and ordered suit after suit. He was fond of dress, and it was remarked at the hotel what fine clothes the young man wore. He was loaded with diamonds and all sorts of precious stones. He bought furniture, and his room was filled with rare brica-brac, none of which he ever paid for. "Recently he was trapped. Manager Doughty found that there was a 85 bill missing, and that the disappearance of the money could only have occurred through fielding. The clork was called into the private office, and after a heated discussion received his dismissal. At that time the manager was not aware of the extent of Helding's thefts. As soon as he realized that his job was gone, Helding packed his traps and inside of an hour was on his way to New York. Several days later Mr. Doughty learned that several guests had paid their bills to Belding before the latter left and that the money had never been turned over. Belding took this money with him.

DETECTIVES ON HIS TRAIL. "An examination of the books showed that it was not the first offense of this kind committed by the bandsome clerk. A guest staying there a week would be charged for only two or three a week would be charged for only two or three days' stay. The difference between what was credited on the books and the real amount paid was pocketed by Beiding.

"When this was discovered Mr. Doughty was indignant. He consulted Supt Linden and the news of Reiding's thefte was sent to the police of various cities. It is believed that the clerk is now in Chicago or thereal-outs. Mr. Doughty was seen by a roporter and he stated that Beiding had not been caught yet, although detectives were close on his trail. Requisition papers have been prepared, and as soon as he is arrested Beiding will be on his way here. Mr. Doughty declined to say what was the total amount of the young man's thefts. A statement is made, however, that it reaches into thousands of dollars, probably between $5,000 and $6,000. Mr. Doughty is thankful that the clerk was detected as soon as he was, for in a few more weeks the theirs would have amounted to a much larger sum.

"Building is all to be connected with a wealthy few more weeks the time.

"Beiding is said to be connected with a wealthy Ohio family. His parents live at Toledo. He has a wife and a child, who are somewhere in the West. His father is an ex-officer of the United States Army."

Catholics of Hosting, Neb., Protest Against

Removal of Their Pastor. The trouble that has arisen in the St. Cecilia Catholic Church, of Hastings, Neb., over thtransfer of Rev. Father English, the paster, to David City, has been brought to the attention of Mgr. Satolli. The dissatisfaction of the cengregation over the near departure of their gregation over the hear departure of their pastor resulted last week in the appointment of a committee to appeal to Mgr. Satolli, and yesterday the committee had an audience with the apostolic delegate. The interview between Mgr. Satolli, his pri-vate secretary, Dr. Papi, and the representative vate secretary. Dr. Papi, and the representative of the discontented congregation, occupied an hour and was held behind closed doors. The utmost secrecy was observed. The representative of the Hastings church submitted his case and protested against the arbitrary action of Bishop Bonacum, or the Lincoln discose. He reforms to the high opinion in which the Rev. Fathering has been been submitted by the order of transfes, which takes effect September I.

It is understood that at the end of the interview the apostolic delegate promised to give the matter full consideration and to reach a prompt decision. Mgr. Satolli retused, to discuss the matter when asked about the case by a reporter.

CONCERNS OF THE DISTRICT.

Commissioners Request the President Sign Two Bills of Great Importance to Local Interests. The necessity of having the President's signs ture to two important measures of District legislation was called to his attention at an early hour yesterday.

The Commissioners addressed to him the following letter, and had it immediately delivered:

The Commissioners addressed to him the following letter, and had it immediately delivered:

"The Commissioners of the District of Columbia take the liberty of calling your special atention to two measures which have been passed by both houses of Congress, and which await your signature.

"One is Senate bill 2201, 'To amend section 563 of the Revised Statutes relating to the District of Columbia,' Unless this bill becomes a law the charters of some very important corporations will expire by limitation before the next session of Congress, and much confusion and trouble will be thereby occasioned.

"The other is Senate resolution to compile and publish the news relating to street railway franchises in the District of Columbia. This is also a very important measure, and we sincerely hope that you will find time to approve the same before the session of Congress shall end to-day."

President Tracy and Secretary Padgett, of Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, have addressed to the Commissioners a letter, which was presented by the latter yesterday, asking that the ordinance against the public distribution of dedgers on the streets be not enforced against the proposed circulation of printed matter from the conveyances in line of parade on labor Pay. As heretofore announced in The Times, the types will have three floats in the procession from which, among other things, copies of an illustrated petition for the construction of a new dovernment Printing Office will be thrown upon the streets, unless forbidden.

President Ross and yesterday that the ordinance was to prevent such distribution of advertising dodgers, but that any proposed circulation of printed matter that might be considered as for public benefit of interest, could doubtless be permitted. The request will be placed before the board to-day.
